MESSAGE FROM YOUR OPTA PRESIDENT

We have just finished the 2019 shooting year. I hope you achieved your goals and will be setting new ones for 2020. It is important to take stock of where you are and what you want to achieve. I am looking for the same things for your organization.

We have just finished a long term under the direction of Past-President Neville Henderson. A lot was accomplished under his watch and we thank him for his tremendous contribution to your association. We will be building on what was produced as we will be using the Bylaws and strategic plan to guide us in our decisions going forward. We will be working with the Ontario Council of Shooters as we strive to improve the lot of trap shooters and all shooters in general. We hope to be able to improve the funding for our sport as we work, through the Ontario Council of Shooters, with the Ontario Ministry of Tourism, Culture and Sports who provide grants to not for profit groups like ours.

Unfortunately, Pam Muma, who has been our Secretary-Treasurer for the last 8 years found it necessary, for personal reasons, to resign from the board. It will be difficult to replace her dedication and experience. We wish her all the best. Fortunately, Jamie LeBlanc, one of our new board members, has agreed to take over the position. He is ideally suited for the role as he has many years experience as Secretary-Treasurer of the Fredericton Gun Club and is a CPA. We are grateful for his willingness to serve in this capacity.

Your board deals with the day to day running of the association which is quite routine. We don't have a property to maintain so we can focus on our main function which is to promote ATA trapshooting in the Province. We do this by supporting the clubs that throw the targets for you and working on programs that encourage more participation. We do not control any of the clubs so all we can do is encourage. We do have a contract with the club that hosts the Provincial Championships, so we do have some input there. Our goal is to have all your competitions as enjoyable as possible.

Just as we don't have control over the clubs, the same applies to the individual shooter unless there are safety concerns. Again, all we can do is encourage. With that in mind I would like to share some of my observations on the things that can add to or detract from the enjoyment of all shooters. A lot of this boils down to courtesy and time. Everyone wants to shoot their targets at their own pace but get frustrated if it takes too long to get through the day's events. Nobody wants to be late for dinner.

There are several time wasters that frustrate shooters and shoot management all the time. We the shooters are the culprits here. Here are some suggestions on how to avoid these annoyances.

- Be on time for your squad. That means 10 min before your turn to shoot. Make sure your squad mates are paying attention as well.
- Take the field as soon as the field is ready. Finish your conversations later.
- When you are finished on a field, move directly to the next field and take the field as soon as it is ready. It is not the time for a lengthy conversation or a smoke. There will be time after the event.
- If you have a breakdown that cannot be repaired in three minutes, leave the field and get it repaired without the time stress and shoot the targets on the make-up trap. Easier on everyone's nerves.
- At larger shoots it is often such that one bank will be finished when there are still shooters on the bank you were scheduled to be on. Please work with shoot management to utilize all the fields to prevent delay from starting the next event.

The other area that can detract from the enjoyment is on your squad. This is an annoyance that often comes from not knowing or recognizing that it is an issue. I will list a few examples.

- Shooting too slowly. Good squads get into a rhythm. Everyone shoots better with a pre shot routine. It is possible to incorporate the routine into the rhythm of the squad.
- Shooting too quickly. If you call immediately after the person in front of you shoots you have the potential for hurting yourself as well as disrupting the rhythm. Your fast call might result in a slow pull for you even though we are dealing with voice release. It takes time for the machine to cycle and reset. It might not be ready at the beginning of your call but is part way through resulting in a slow pull. An easy guideline is to not call until the pieces of the target have hit the ground. This gives time for the scorer to properly assess each shot target.

- A fast call means that you probably have already shouldered your gun as the shooter before you is shooting. This movement is a distraction. Don't move until the shot is completed. It is fine to get to a set position as the shooter before you, is shouldering their gun but freeze until after the shot is completed, then shoulder your gun and call for your target.
- An excessively loud call is a distraction to your squad and a disservice to the fields beside you as it can set off their targets as well as your own. This can result in other shooters not wanting to shoot with you.
- A low but increasing call is mostly a problem for you. You will get a lot of slow pulls as the call has to reach a certain decibel level to trigger the release of the target. If you take the shot, you have an increased probability of missing. If you refuse the target as being slow, you are disrupting the rhythm of the squad. Broken targets are inevitable, but shooter errors are not necessary.

My goal with this is not to be preaching but to let you know of some ways you can increase the enjoyment for yourself as well as those around you. Take advantage of your practice time and winter league shoots to develop your pre-shot routine and incorporate it into the rhythm of your squad. You and your squad mates will be happy with your efforts.

If you have any thoughts about how to improve your organization or concerns that you feel should be addressed, do not hesitate to contact me or any board member. I promise we will consider them.

All the best with achieving your shooting goals in the 2020 shooting year.

Robert (Bert) Blackburn

OPTA President
